

Janet Threadgill is a retired educator with 28 years of experience in public education, working as a teacher and counselor. Her area of expertise was elementary education, where she taught 2nd, 3rd, and 4th grades. For 20 years, she worked at the same campus in Mesquite ISD, serving as a teacher and counselor. Prior to this, she taught for eight years in South Texas. Janet's dedication to education has led her to become a member of the Tackle Tomorrow organization, where she has been making a positive impact for the past two and a half years.
